If you only reviewed the book based upon need at the time and incomplete, you should try to such as reading Bones And The Dog Gone Mystery By David A. Adler first.

From School Library Journal

Grade 1-3—This story combines two popular elements—dogs and mysteries. During a trip to the park, a young detective follows clues to track down his lost magnifying glass and to find his grandfather's missing pet. Events are logically sequenced and the conclusion is satisfying. The child-friendly text is large and well spaced. The cartoon illustrations are brightly colored and, for the most part, interspersed appropriately throughout the narrative. However, there are spots when the amount of text may overwhelm beginning readers. The pictures add interest and provide visual cues that will help youngsters navigate through the story.
