HUMAN MULES: THE KAYAYO GIRLS BY CAROL LARRATT PDF

Almost hidden within the depths of one of Africa's largest cities live the enigmatic kayayo - thousands of young adolescent girls who have chosen to live in an exclusively female world devoid of men and boys. Through extensive interviews in often dangerous circumstances Carol Larratt takes us on a journey where we experience first-hand their tragedies and horrors. Human Mules is a story of human survival against almost inconceivable adversity. Yet like all stories of survival it is ultimately uplifting as we too experience the joys and heartaches of these courageous young women.

Unique and valuable portrayal of girls in Ghana

By Nancy Marie

Human Mules is Carol Larratt's memoir of her years of studying a unique phenomenon in Ghana: the Kaya (Carrier) Girls. These girls come from the north of Ghana where they have almost no opportunities for schooling or jobs. Most have to settle for the drudgery of early marriages. Instead, they flock to the South, mostly Accra, and work as head porters. They are not street children, but sleep in the street and the markets. They have interesting ways of organizing their lives and surviving, many with babies in tow. Larratt has written her book with honesty and compassion. It reads like a memoir, sometimes a novel – always compelling. She enters a little-known world and explores it in great depth, often putting herself at risk. She represents the Kaya Girls' situation with multiplicity and is non-judgemental in her presentation. The book is compelling as the reader follows several of the girls over a number of years – I did not want to put this book down and was sorry when it ended. For those who love West Africa, Ghana, northern Ghana, Accra, international development, education of the girl child – this book is for you. It is sad, sometimes shocking, but also offers hope. It shows true resilience in the face of discrimination and abject poverty. Well done to Larratt for such an ambitious labour of love which has added considerably to literature on the plight of the girl child in Africa.
