Grade 4-7 - The ultimate trivia browsing book, this volume offers a captivating collection of interesting, gross, and amazing stories and features that will seize the attention of children and keep them turning pages. The book opens with the legacy of Robert Ripley's cartoon series and chain of museums before dividing into chapters such as "Beyond Understanding," "Amazing Earth," "Body & Mind," and "Wonders of Science." Large color photographs illustrate segments on topics such as vampire bats, a public autopsy, bog snorkeling, and the winners of the dirtiest children contest. The book design leads readers' eyes from the captions to the rest of the text, which offers additional enticing facts. A thorough index adds to the appeal because of the number of celebrities mentioned. Sure to be popular. - Elizabeth Stumpf, Clearfield Middle School, PA

The colorful pictures tell the story.

By kristine kramer

I am a high school teacher so I can say with some certainty that these books attract attention from the males and females in my classes. My niece brought them to her summer camp and she is 8 yrs old. Everyone who looks at just one page gets hooked. Their key to catching your attention is the large color pictures. This book in black-and-white would not be so popular. Yes, you pay more for this book, but anyone over 3 and under 93 will be drawn in. An added benefit for me is the size of the book, as well as the hardback, because it makes the books almost impossible to steal from the room! That and the fact that there is never just one student looking at it. If you have a classroom, this book is for you. If you have a child who hates to read, this book is for you. If you want to be a "cool" grandparent, this book is for you.

It was awesome to get this book for such a cheap price

By Amazon Customer

It was awesome to get this book for such a cheap price! I collect Ripley's books and when I was younger, it was hard for me to get them because they were so pricey. Love that I could find my favorite books for a steal! The book came in great condition and arrived very quickly!
