Well loved by young and old - a book that will inform and inspire the whole family, this beautifully presented, yet practical book, is the ideal accompaniment to Operation World. Stunning photographic visuals complement this A to Z of countries and people groups providing an exciting learning experience and guide for prayer. Short stories about featured countries or people groups help relate foreign lands and people to children in the West. Each page includes a small map putting the country into perspective with neighboring countries, a fact box with essential country, and people information and prayer points that children can ask God for as well as thank God for. This invaluable resource develops cultural, political, and geographical awareness through a Christian lens. Families, churches, and schools will all benefit from this book and in turn be able to pray more effectively for their world. Winner of the 2002 Gold Medallion for Elementary Age Children.

I'd say get this to at least teach about other cultures and to give your children an idea of what other countries are like, but

By Justice Pirate

Compared to now, this is far outdated. I bought this to teach my sons about the world, and for that it serves its purpose very well. Our family reads through it and then prays together for each country we read about or people group. There are loads of colorful pages with information. I'd say get this to at least teach about other cultures and to give your children an idea of what other countries are like, but if you are trying to teach history from it, see if there is a newer version with updated information instead.

Great for Homeschoolers of all Ages

By HomeschoolMomma

We bought this book as part of our Sonlight homeschool curriculum. It's my favorite of the year. Each double page spread focuses on a different county or people group. The photos are amazing and the stories are short and hold my kids'(age 4, 6 & 8) attention. We use the maps included along with our own wall map to learn where each place is in the world.

By far though, our favorite part is the list of suggested prayers for each people group or country. Since the school year started, our family has been able to pray for people all over the world, some of which we didn't even know existed before we read this book. My four year old still often prays for the "kids who live in the sewers" as those pages particularly touched his heart.

Be warned that this book may spark some hard discussions with your children. My kids have asked many questions: easy ones about what different religions believe (the back of the book has a great resource for describing the main religions of the world)and really hard ones like "Why would that person's family kill them if they became a Christian?" or "How can we help kids who live in the sewer?"

The only issue I have is that the edition I have is about 10 years old, and as with any geography book, some things have changed in that time. When we covered Iraq, for example, the had listed Saddam Huessien as the leader of the country. It wasn't a huge deal for me, because I knew enough about that country to update the kids.

I was slightly disappointed in its condition

By Deb Adams

Yes, it is what i hoped it would be. I was slightly disappointed in its condition. I think the packaging material broke a couple of inches of the spine o book. The front page was torn from the binding about 2 inches. But it is the book i thought it would be. Thanks.
